The Court invited submissions from interested parties seeking to be appointed as Plaintiffs' counsel in this case, and required any oppositions to be filed by April 28, 2023. (22-MD-3050, Dkt. #30). Having received no such oppositions, the Court endorses the above leadership structure and appoints the above-named firms and individuals. The Court will not review time and expense submissions on a semi-annual or quarterly basis. Instead, the Court expects that Plaintiffs' counsel will efficiently and productively work together on this case, and will not duplicate each other's work. Counsel is warned that the Court will carefully scrutinize any fee-related motions.
